

Privacy Policy

ACP Capital Management is sensitive to the necessity of protecting your personal and financial information. As a member of SEC, we are required to collect personal information relating to you, your account(s) and your investment characteristics. We use this information to provide you and your account with the highest level of professional service.

We are committed to maintaining the highest levels of safety and security for information you provide, either online or otherwise. Toward this goal, please note:

- We are dedicated to protecting your personal and account information
- We will use the information to service your account(s) and provide information about services or products you have requested
- We will not sell or distribute your information to any unaffiliated third parties; however, we may share certain information you provide in the same way as information is routinely shared in the conduct of a standard brokerage account; for example, we may provide information in concert with regulatory requirements of certain agencies, such as the Internal Revenue Service, SEC and other organizations to which we are responsible, or with which we are, or may become, affiliated

ONLINE ACCOUNT ACCESS

As you know, you may only access your account information online by entering your unique User Name and Password. This ensures that your information is protected by maintaining it on the secure portion of our Web site. Your password should never be shared with anyone.

DISPOSAL OF CLIENT RECORDS

In order to protect your privacy, we shall dispose of client records once they are no longer stored in our file facilities in our offices by making arrangements to store them in a secure facility under lock and key designed for the purpose of storing records securely. Such records may be kept there indefinitely or may be burned or shredded once they are no longer required to be held by the regulatory authorities.
